Expedition Against the Indians in 1791.

New Jersey Battalion Levies

Second Regiment Infantry, United States Army.

Expedition Against the Indians on the Frontiers in 1791.

On account of the disturbed condition of the Indian tribes on the northwestern frontiers, Congress passed an act, approved March 3, 1791, entitled "An Act for raising and adding another Regiment to the Military Establishment of the United States, and for making further provision for the protection of the frontiers."

This regiment was commanded by Lieutenant-Colonel Commandant George Gibson, of Virginia, and a battalion of four companies of infantry, known as the "New Jersey Battalion," was raised in this State under the denomination of levies, and were called into the service of the United States for a term not exceeding six months. This battalion was in an organization known as the Second Regiment, which was a part of the command of Major General Arthur St. Clair, and took part in the action with the Indians near Fort Recovery, Ohio, November 4, 1791, commonly known as "St. Clair's Defeat." The Battalion was mustered out November 19, 1791.

Many of the officers of this New Jersey Battalion had done good service as commissioned officers in the Continental Line during the Revolutionary War.

RECORD

OFFICERS AND MEN OF NEW JERSEY

IN THE

Pennsylvania Insurrection of 1794.

The Pennsylvania Insurrection of 1794.

In the year 1791 the Congress of the United States passed laws laying certain duties upon all distilled liquors and on the stills in which the spirits were manufactured. This excise tax greatly affected the interests of the inhabitants of Western Pennsylvania, and as soon as it was levied they began to combine in the counties of Allegheny, Fayette, Washington, and Westmoreland, to prevent its collection. During the summer of 1794, an attack was made on a Deputy Inspector of the United States, and afterward upon the house of the Chief Inspector. Some persons were killed, several wounded, others obliged to leave that section of the country, and a general spirit of lawlessness prevailed, which the civil authorities were powerless to subdue.

In May, 1794, Congress passed the following Act :

AN ACT directing a detachment from the militia of the United States.

SECTION I. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the President of the United States be and he is hereby authorized to require of the Executives of the several States to take effectual measures to organize, arm and equip, according to law, and hold in readiness to march at a moment's warning, the following proportions, respectively, of eighty thousand effective militia, officers included, to wit :

* * * * *
From the State of New Jersey, four thousand three hundred and eighteen.
* * * * *

SECTION II. And be it further enacted, That the detachments of militia aforesaid shall be officered out of the present militia officers, or others at the option and discretion of the constitutional authority, in each State respectively.

SECTION III. And be it further enacted, That the President may, if he judges expedient, authorize the Executives of the several States to accept any independent corps of cavalry, artillery or infantry, as part of the detachments aforesaid, provided they shall voluntarily engage as corps in the service.

SECTION IV. And be it further enacted, That the said militia shall not be compelled to serve a longer time, in any one tour, than three months after their arrival at the place of rendezvous; and that during the time of their service, besides their pay and other allowances, which shall be the same as the troops on the military establishment of the United States, they shall receive at the rate of one dollar and sixty-six cents for clothing, per month.

SECTION V. And be it further enacted, That the President of the United States be requested to call on the Executives of the several States to take the most effectual means, that the whole of the militia, not comprised within the foregoing requisition, be armed and equipped according to law.

SECTION VI. And be it further enacted, That this act shall continue and be in force for the space of one year from the passing thereof, and from thence to the end of the next session of Congress, and no longer.

Approved May 9, 1794.

In accordance with the above Act of Congress the Legislature of New Jersey passed the following Act :

AN ACT to authorize the Commander-in-Chief to detail a detachment from the Militia of this State, agreeably to a late Act of Congress.

1. Be it enacted by the Council and General Assembly of this State and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the Commander-in-Chief of this State be, and he is hereby authorized and directed, as soon as may be, to detail from the militia of this State four thousand three hundred and eighteen effective militia, officers included, who shall be organized, armed and equipped according to the laws of this State and the United States, and to remain as a select corps of militia for one year, and from thence to the end of the next session of the Congress of the United States, and during that time to hold themselves in readiness to march at a moment's warning.

2. And be it further enacted, That the general, field and other officers of said corps shall be detailed from the different grades of the existing officers of the militia, as near as may be practicable, in proportion to the number of men to be required of them, at the discretion of the Commander-in-Chief.

3. And be it enacted, That it shall be the duty of the Commander-in-Chief to apportion the said detachment among the respective brigades according to the number of men returned by the commissioners who were appointed by the Act entitled "An Act for organizing and training the militia of this State" and the supplement thereto, as near as may be, including all that are exempt by said returns from common militia duty.

4. And be it further enacted, That the Commander-in-Chief be authorized, at his discretion, to accept as part of the aforesaid detachment any uniform corps or part of corps who shall voluntarily engage in the service; and also to accept of all such men from the different brigades, regiments, battalions and companies as shall offer to enroll themselves, until the quota of such brigade, regiment, battalion or company shall be completely enrolled.

5. And be it further enacted, That if any company shall not complete the number of men apportioned to them in order to fill up said detachment, in fifteen days after the Captain or commanding officer of said company shall have received orders for that purpose, it shall be the duty of the said Captain or commanding officer, immediately after the expiration of the said time, to make a list of all the free white male inhabitants and others holding property, residing within the bounds of his company, of eighteen years of age and upwards, and shall divide the whole into as many classes as there may be men deficient, arranging, as near as may be, an equal proportion of property in each class; and if any class should neglect or refuse to turn out an able-bodied, effective man for ten days, it shall be the duty of the said Captain or commanding officer, as soon as may be, to hire a substitute on the most reasonable terms that he can and assess the sum agreed by him to be given to the substitute on the said deficient class, in as equal a proportion, according to their estates, as may be; and in order that the classing of said companies and assessing the hire of the substitutes may be more equitably done, the Captain or commanding officer is hereby authorized and directed to call on the assessor of the township for the time being, who is required to attend, with a copy of his duplicate, and assist in classing and assessing as aforesaid.

6. And be it further enacted, That on the neglect or refusal of any person or persons to pay the money so assessed when demanded, it shall be the duty of the said Captain or commanding officer to return the name or names of the delinquent or delinquents to a Justice of the Peace of the county, who is hereby required to proceed to the recovery thereof in the same manner as by law is directed for the recovery of taxes and to pay the said assessments to the Captain or commanding officer; and in case of distress or sale any overplus should arise the same shall be offered to the delinquent, and if he shall refuse to receive it, then to be deposited in the hands of the town collector, to be applied to the discharge of the delinquents' taxes.

7. And be it further enacted, That every non-commissioned officer, musician and private soldier, in the said detachment of militia, when called into actual service, besides their pay and other allowances granted by the United States, shall be entitled to receive from this State at the rate of three dollars per month, during their time of service, and the sum of two dollars as a bounty for their enrolling and holding themselves in readiness to march agreeably to this Act, which sums the Treasurer is hereby authorized to pay into the hands of the Paymasters of the several regiments and corps out of any monies in the treasury, upon regular pay-rolls being produced by him, containing the number of privates mustered therein, and a warrant signed by the Major-General or officer commanding the detachment, certifying the names of the non-commissioned officers, musicians and privates who may have performed the said tour of duty, and also who may be entitled to receive the said bounty.

8. And be it further enacted, That until the aforesaid detachments are called into actual service they shall remain annexed to and perform the duty required of the militia of this State by law, with the divisions, brigades, regiments, battalions, companies and corps to which they now belong, or in which they would have been subject to do duty if this law had not passed.

Passed at Trenton, June 20, 1794.

On the 7th day of August, 1794, President Washington issued this proclamation :

WHEREAS, Combinations to defeat the execution of the laws laying duties upon spirits distilled within the United States and upon stills, have from the time of the commencement of those laws existed in some of the western parts of Pennsylvania; and whereas, the said combinations, proceeding in a manner subversive equally of the just authority of government and of the rights of individuals, have hitherto effected their dangerous and criminal purposes, by the influence of certain irregular meetings, whose proceedings have tended to encourage and uphold the spirit of opposition by misrepresentations of the laws calculated to render them odious; by endeavours to deter those who might be so disposed from accepting offices under them, through fear of public resentments and of injury to persons and property, and to compel those who had accepted such offices by actual violence to surrender or forbear the execution of them; by circulating vindictive measures against all who should otherwise directly or indirectly aid in the execution of the said laws, or who, yielding to the dictates of conscience and to a sense of obligation, should themselves comply therewith; by actually injuring and destroying the property of persons who were understood to have so complied; by inflicting cruel, humiliating punishment upon private citizens for no other cause than that of appearing to be the friends of the laws; by interrupting the public officers on the highways, abusing, assaulting and otherwise ill treating them; by going to their houses in the night, gaining admittance by force, taking away their papers and committing other outrages; employing for these unwarrantable purposes the agency of armed banditti in such manner as for the most part to escape discovery; and whereas, the endeavours of the Legislature to obviate objections to the said laws by lowering the duties, and by other alterations conducive to the convenience of those whom they immediately affected (though they have given satisfaction in other quarters), and the endeavours of the Executive officers to conciliate a compliance with the laws, by expostulation, by forbearance, and even by recommendations founded on the suggestion of local considerations, have been disappointed of their effect by the machinations of persons whose industry to excite resistance has increased with the appearance of a disposition among the people to relax in their opposition and to acquiesce in the laws; inasmuch that many persons in the said western parts of Pennsylvania have at length been hardy enough to perpetrate acts which I am advised amount to treason, being overt acts of levying war against the United States; the said persons having on the sixteenth and seventeenth of July last proceeded in arms (on the second day, amounting to several hundred) to the house of John Neville, inspector of the revenues for the fourth survey of the districts of Pennsylvania, having repeatedly attacked the said house, with the persons therein, wounding some of them; having seized David Lennox, marshal of the district of Pennsylvania, who previous thereto had been fired upon, while in the execution of his duty, by a party of men detaining him for some time prisoner, till for the preservation of his life and obtaining of his liberty he found it necessary to enter into stipulations to forbear the execution of certain official duties touching processes issuing out of a court of the United States, and having finally obliged the said inspector of the revenue and the marshal from considerations of personal safety, to fly from this part of the country, in order by a circuitous route to proceed to the seat of government; avowing as the motives of these outrageous proceedings an intention to prevent by force of arms the execution of the said laws, to oblige the said inspector of the revenue to renounce his said office, to withstand by open violence the lawful authority of the government of the United States, and to compel thereby an alteration in the measures of the Legislature, and a repeal of the laws aforesaid; and whereas, by a law of the United States, entitled "An act to provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections and repel invasions," it is enacted "that whenever the laws of the United States shall be opposed, or the execution thereof obstructed in any state by combinations too powerful to be suppressed by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings, or by the powers vested in the marshals by that act, the same being notified by an associate justice or the District judges, it shall be lawful for the President of the United States to call forth the militia of said State to suppress such combinations and to cause the laws to be duly executed. And if the militia of a State where such combinations may happen and shall refuse or be insufficient to suppress the same, it shall be lawful for the President, if the Legislature of the United States shall not be in session, to call forth and employ such numbers of the militia of any other state or states most convenient thereto as may be necessary, and the use of the militia so to be called forth may be continued, if necessary, until the expiration of thirty days after the commencement of the ensuing session; provided always, that whenever it may be necessary, in the judgment of the President, to use the military force hereby directed to be called forth, the President shall forthwith and previous thereto, by proclamation, command such insurgents to disperse—retire peaceably to their respective abodes within a limited time; and whereas, James Wilson, an associate justice, on the fourth instant, by writing under his hand, did from evidence which had been laid before him, notify to me that "in the counties of Washington and Allegheny, in Pennsylvania, the laws of the United States are opposed, and the execution thereof obstructed by combinations too powerful to be suppressed by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings or by the powers vested in the Marshal of that district."

AND WHEREAS, It is in my judgment necessary under the circumstances of the case to take measures for calling forth the militia in order to suppress the combination aforesaid and to cause the laws to be duly executed, and I have accordingly determined so to do, feeling the deepest regret for the occasion, but withal the most solemn conviction, that the essential interests of the Union demand it, that the very existence of government and the fundamental principles of social order are materially involved in the issue, and that the patriotism and firmness of all good citizens are seriously called upon, as occasion may require, to aid in the effectual suppression of so fatal a spirit.

Wherefore, and in pursuance of the provision above recited, I, George Washington, President of the United States, do hereby command all persons, being insurgents as aforesaid, and all others whom it may concern, on or before the first day of September next to disperse and return peaceably to their respective abodes. And I do moreover warn all persons whomsoever against aiding, abetting, or comforting the perpetrators of the aforesaid treasonable acts! And do require all officers and other citizens according to their respective duties and the law of the land to exert their utmost endeavours to prevent and suppress such dangerous proceedings.

In testimony whereof I have caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed to these presents and signed the same with my hand. Done at the city of Philadelphia, the seventh day of August, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-four and of the independence of the United States of America, the nineteenth.

By the President,
EDM. RANDOLPH,
Secretary of State.

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

On the 23d day of August, 1794, Governor Richard Howell, of New Jersey, promulgated the following General Orders:

TRENTON, August 23d, 1794.

* * * * *
By authority of His Excellency the President of the United States, and agreeably to his requisition through the War Department of August 7th, 1794, Major General Elias Dayton is ordered as immediately as it is possible to organize and hold in readiness to march at a moment's warning out of his command, under the Act of Congress entitled "An Act directing a detachment from the militia of the United States," one Brigadier-General and fifteen hundred non-commissioned officers and privates of infantry, with the due proportion of commissioned officers. The troops detailed for this duty are to be armed and equipped as completely as possible with the articles in possession of the State or the individuals who shall compose the corps, and any deficiency which may be unavoidable will be furnished by the United States upon the earliest notice. Two companies of artillery, one from General Dayton's division and one from General Ellis' division, consisting each of a Captain, two Lieutenants and forty-eight non-commissioned officers and matrosses, are attached to and to hold themselves in readiness to march at a moment's warning with the detachment last mentioned. Pieces, &c., will be furnished by the United States on the shortest notice.

The Cavalry officers and men in command of Major-General Dayton under the orders of the 27th of June, and so many officers, non-commissioned officers and dragoons to be called into service by troops or otherwise from other squadrons of the State as will complete a corps of five hundred cavalry, mounted, armed and equipped according to law, are ordered to hold themselves in readiness at a moment's warning, under the orders of the General of Cavalry. As the Cavalry of this State are not yet regimented, General White, who is the oldest cavalry officer of the late American army now in service, will take the command of that corps of cavalry, which will have to act separate from the detachment, when joined by the cavalry ordered by the President from other States. He will therefore direct such Staff officers of his brigade as are necessary to be in readiness, and provide a proper person, for whom he will be accountable, to do the duty of Adjutant-General in his absence. As there is now ordered so large a detachment of cavalry, no men are to be taken from the several troops by the infantry in forming and detailing the detachment ordered from brigades, but all troops which have voluntarily offered and accepted of are still to be considered as part of the same. Camp equipage, tents and any unsurmountable difficulty of equipment of each distinction of troops will be provided for by the United States. Proper returns of the detachment will be insisted upon as soon as they can be made, for such will be best evidence of the disposition of the State to support the constitution and honor of the Union. All the militia of New Jersey are directed to be in constant readiness for any further occasion of government, and the Commander-in-Chief feels the pleasure of joining them in sentiments of entire devotion to our common interests.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief of New Jersey Militia.

ANTH. W. WHITE, Adj-Gen.

On the 1st of September Governor Howell issued these General Orders:

TRENTON, September 1st, 1794.

By the command of the President of the United States, the troops in requisition from the State of New Jersey, which were detailed from Major General Dayton's command and from the Cavalry and Artillery of this State, by order of the 23d of August last, are to rendezvous at Trenton, where they will be provided with everything necessary for the expedition, and wait further orders. Dispositions have been made by order of the national executive for the supply of provisions, forage, fuel and transportation to the general rendezvous at Trenton, where they will be met with tents and camp equipage necessary for their march. The troops from the second division will take up their line of march by the most direct route to New Brunswick, where they will apply to Mr. John Bray for provision and forage, and those of the third and fourth and first divisions to Trenton, to which place the troops of the second will also proceed. The stipulated price of rations will be allowed from the time of march till their assembling at Trenton, to such as may not draw from the public stores and choose to furnish themselves; but if intermediate appointments are judged necessary to be made, three days' notice must be sent to Messrs. Hunt & Bray by the Brigadier commanding the detachment, who will take the necessary precautions. No longer time will be allowed for the arrival of the troops at rendezvous, than what will appear to have been absolutely necessary for accomplishing their march, after receiving marching orders, which period the officers commanding companies, &c., are required to note with precision, together with the name of the place where they halt each day on their route. The strictest regard to discipline and good order is to be observed on the march and the rights of property are to be scrupulously preserved to individuals.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief.

ANTH. W. WHITE, Adj-Gen.

The detail thus made having assembled at the rendezvous at Trenton were mustered into the service of the United States for three months. The cavalry was mustered September 14th, and on the 17th was ordered to cross the Delaware river. The artillery was mustered September 20th, and the infantry at different dates, such as 20th, 21st, 24th, 25th, 27th, 29th, the artillery and the first detachment of the infantry commencing their march into Pennsylvania September 22d.

In their line of march they passed through Newtown, Norristown, Reading, Harrisburg and Carlisle. At the latter place they were reviewed by the President of the United States.

About this time President Washington issued another Proclamation.

WHEREAS, From a hope that the combination against the constitution and laws of the United States in certain of the western counties of Pennsylvania would yield to time and reflection, I thought it sufficient in the first instance rather to take measures for calling forth the militia, than immediately to embody them; but the moment is now come when the overtures of forgiveness with no other condition than a submission to law have been only partially accepted—when every form of conciliation not inconsistent with the being of government has been adopted without effect; when the well-disposed in those counties are unable by their influence and example to reclaim the wicked from their fury, and are compelled to associate in their own defence; when the proffered lenity has been perversely misinterpreted into an apprehension that the citizens will march with reluctance; when the opportunity of examining the serious consequences of a reasonable opposition has been employed in propagating principles of anarchy, endeavoring through emissaries to alienate the friends of order from its support and inviting its enemies to perpetrate similar acts of insurrection; when it is manifest that violence would continue to be exercised upon every attempt to enforce the laws. When, therefore, government is set at defiance, the contest being whether a small portion of the United States shall dictate to the whole Union, and at the expense of those who desire peace, indulge a desperate ambition.

Now, therefore, I, George Washington, President of the United States, in obedience to that high and irresistible duty, consigned to me by the Constitution "to take care that the laws be faithfully executed," deploring that the American name should be sullied by the outrages of citizens on their own government; commiserating such as remain obstinate from delusion; but resolved in perfect reliance on that Gracious Providence which so signally displays its goodness towards this country, to reduce the refractory to a due subordination to the laws; do hereby declare and make known, that with a satisfaction which can be equalled only by the merits of the militia summoned into service from the states of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia, I have received intelligence of their patriotic alacrity in obeying the call of the present, though painful, yet commanding necessity; that a force which, according to every reasonable expectation, is adequate to the exigency, is already in motion to the scene of dissension; that those who have confided, or shall confide in the protection of the government shall meet full succour under the standard and from the arms of the United States; that those who having offended against the laws have since entitled themselves to indemnity, will be treated with the most liberal good faith, if they shall not have forfeited their claim by any subsequent conduct, and that instructions are given accordingly.

And I do moreover exhort all individuals, officers and bodies of men, to contemplate with abhorrence the measures, leading directly or indirectly to those crimes which produce this resort to military coercion; to check, in their respective spheres, the efforts of misguided or designing men to substitute their misrepresentation in the place of truth, and their discontents in the place of stable government; and to call to mind that as the people of the United States have been permitted, under the Divine favour, in perfect freedom, after solemn deliberation, and in an enlightened age, to elect their own government, so will their gratitude for this inestimable blessing be best distinguished by firm exertions to maintain the Constitution and the laws.

And lastly, I again warn all persons whomsoever and wheresoever not to abet, aid or comfort the insurgents aforesaid, as they will answer the contrary at their peril; and I do also require all officers and other citizens, as far as may be in their power, to bring under the cognizance of the laws all offenders in the premises.

In testimony whereof I have caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed to these presents and signed the same with my hand. Done at the city of Philadelphia, the twenty-fifth day of September, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-four, and of the independence of the United States of America, the nineteenth.

By the President,
EDM. RANDOLPH,
Secretary of State.

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

After the troops ordered out by the President had all assembled at Carlisle they marched to Shippensburg, Strausburg, crossed the Blue Mountains to Bedford, Parkinson's Ferry, Brown's Ferry, to Pittsburg. At Bedford President Washington gave instructions to Governor Henry Lee, of Virginia, and appointed him to command the army. From this time forward many arrests were made, until finally, overawed by the approach of such a large and efficient force, "the whiskey boys" succumbed, asked the clemency of the government authorities and pledged their future submission to the law. The army commenced its return march November 21st, 1794, and the New Jersey Militia arrived in New Jersey December 20th, and was discharged at Trenton, December 23d, 24th and 25th, 1794.

In organizing the troops from New Jersey, the Governor of the State, Richard Howell, whose former service was as Major, Second Regiment, New Jersey Continental Line, in the Revolutionary War, took command of all the State force called out for this tour of duty, and was assigned, October 9th, to a division which was known as the "right wing of the army."

Brigadier General Anthony Walton White, at that time Adjutant-General of the State and during the Revolutionary War Colonel of the First Regiment, Continental Dragoons, was ordered in command of the New Jersey Cavalry, and in October was selected to command all the cavalry in the army.

Brigadier General Joseph Bloomfield, of the First Brigade, First Division of the militia of the State, and formerly Major in the Third Regiment, New Jersey Continental Line, was ordered in command of the New Jersey brigade, which consisted of two batteries of artillery and four regiments of infantry.

Major-General Frederick Frelinghuysen, Colonel of the First Battalion, Somerset County, New Jersey, Militia in 1777, took command of a Legion composed of Philadelphia Horse, McPherson Blues and several other organizations. Lieutenant-Colonel Jonathan Ford Morris, of the Somerset County Brigade of Militia, commanded, as Captain, a company of Jerseymen in this Legion.

OFFICERS AND ENLISTED MEN

IN THE

UNITED STATES NAVY AND MARINE CORPS FROM NEW JERSEY,

IN COMMISSION AND ENLISTMENT DURING THE

War With France, May 28, 1798, to February 3, 1801.

Officers and Enlisted Men in the United States Navy and Marine Corps from New Jersey

IN COMMISSION AND ENLISTMENT DURING THE War With France, 1798–1801.

The War with France was conducted entirely by the naval and marine forces of the United States.

The Revolution was on in France, and the maritime powers of Europe, with England in the lead, were striving to crush the new republic. In retribution, the French cruisers captured and condemned many American merchantmen laden with American products not contraband of war, simply because those ships were en route to ports of nations at war with France. Retaliation, therefore, became absolutely necessary, disagreeable as it might be to engage a former ally, after all diplomatic efforts failed to preserve a permanent peace with the discordant elements that, in those days of the French Revolution, ruled at Paris.

While the United States government did not actually declare war against France, Congress substantially did so when it passed the following, and the subsequent, Act:

AN ACT more effectually to protect the Commerce and Coasts of the United States.

WHEREAS armed vessels sailing under authority or pretence of authority from the Republic of France, have committed depredations on the commerce of the United States, and have recently captured the vessels and property of citizens thereof, on and near the coasts, in violation of the law of nations, and treaties between the United States and the French nation. Therefore

BE IT ENACTED by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That it shall be lawful for the President of the United States, and he is hereby authorized to instruct and direct the commanders of the armed vessels belonging to the United States to seize, take and bring into any port of the United States, to be proceeded against according to the laws of nations, any such armed vessel which shall have committed or which shall be found hovering on the coasts of the United States, for the purpose of committing depredations on the vessels belonging to citizens thereof; and also to retake any ship or vessel, or any citizen or citizens of the United States which may have been captured by any such armed vessel.—Approved, May 28, 1798.

On June 13, 1798, the commercial intercourse existing between the United States and France, and the dependencies thereof, was suspended by an act of Congress. The Congress passed the following Act, which was approved July 7, 1798:

AN ACT to declare the treaties heretofore concluded with France, no longer obligatory on the United States.

WHEREAS the treaties concluded between the United States and France have been repeatedly violated on the part of the French government; and the just claims of the United States for reparation of the injuries so committed have been refused, and their attempts to negotiate an amicable adjustment of all complaints between the two nations, have been repelled with indignity; and,

WHEREAS, under authority of the French government, there is yet pursued against the United States, a system of predatory violence, infracting the said treaties, and hostile to the rights of a free and independent nation:

BE IT ENACTED by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the United States are of right freed and exonerated from the stipulations of the treaties, and of the consular convention, heretofore concluded between the United States and France; and that the same shall not henceforth be regarded as legally obligatory on the government or citizens of the United States.

This naval war between France and the United States, which began May 28, 1798, was virtually closed on February 3, 1801. The convention of peace, commerce and navigation, was concluded by the Plenipotentiaries of the governments of the United States and France, September 30, 1800. The Senate of the United States, by a resolution passed February 3, 1801, advised the ratification of the treaty made by the convention, subject to a material alteration suggested in one of the articles. This was agreed to, and the ratification was exchanged at Paris, France, July 31, 1801; approved by the United States Senate, December 19, 1801; and promulgated by a Proclamation of the President of the United States, Thomas Jefferson, December 20, 1801.

By the provision of this treaty all government vessels of war captured on either side were to be restored, and the prizes to be retained by their respective captors.

to June 4, 1805.

Officers and Enlisted Men in the United States Navy and Marine Corps from New Jersey

IN COMMISSION AND ENLISTMENT DURING THE War With Tripoli, Africa, 1801-1805.

This war, conducted entirely by the naval and marine forces of the United States, was occasioned by the refusal of the United States to deliver tribute levied and demanded by the Bashaw of Tripoli, Jusuf Caramanly, as the price for his specific performance of the treaty of amity concluded with this regency on November 4, 1796.

The leading naval powers of Europe had long been accustomed to the payment of annual tribute to the piratical States of Barbary for the safety of their commerce upon the high seas, while the merchantmen of the weaker maritime nations were constantly harassed, and their seamen carried off to a horrible servitude to await ransom. By reason of these existing conditions, the government of the United States reluctantly entered into relations with these barbarous powers similar to those of the most favored nations.

When the Bashaw learned of the concessions made by our government to the Dey of Algiers, he manifested a disposition to war. Upon receiving no satisfactions from the representations made to the American consul at Tripoli, and the letter addressed to President John Adams on the 5th of March, 1800, he gave our consul, James Leander Cathcart, his passports; cut down the flag-staff of the American consulate, May 14, 1801; and, on the 10th of the following month, formally declared war against the United States.

Before news of the declaration of war by the Bashaw of Tripoli reached the United States, the government had intimations of the probability of such a measure being taken; and on the 20th of May, 1801, the Secretary of the Navy ordered a squadron of observation to the Mediterranean, under the command of Captain Richard Dale, with ample instructions to meet any emergency.

On February 6, 1802, Congress enacted laws which obviated all the constitutional scruples of President Thomas Jefferson, contained in his message of December 8, 1801, which authorized the capture and condemnation of any Tripolitan vessels that might be found. This act did not contain a formal declaration of war, but provided for all the contingencies of such, even to empowering the President to issue commissions and letters of marque to privateers. Provision was made for a more vigorous prosecution of the war by an Act of Congress entitled "An Act further to protect the commerce and seamen of the United States against the Barbary powers," approved March 26, 1804.

The war was terminated June 4, 1805, by a treaty of peace, amity and commerce, concluded on board the United States Frigate "Constitution," flagship of Captain John Rodgers, commanding the Mediterranean Squadron, in the harbor of Tripoli; and its ratification was advised by a Resolution of the United States Senate on April 12, 1806. Under the provision of this treaty the Bashaw relinquished all claim to future tribute; Tripolitan and United States prisoners were exchanged, man for man; and the remaining American captives were liberated by the payment of a ransom of sixty thousand dollars.

The significant features of such conflicts as took place during this war were found in the intrepidity of the officers and enlisted men of the American ships, and the development of an esprit de corps unknown to the navies of the world, whose gallantry, bravery and success was specially recognized by the several resolutions of Congress during this war period.

IN THE

War With Great Britain, 1812-1815.

War With Great Britain, 1812-1815.

Nearly two months before war was declared between the United States and Great Britain, New Jersey had begun to place herself in a condition to defend her seacoasts and harbors. The Congress of the United States passed the following:

AN ACT to authorize a detachment from the militia of the United States.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That the President of the United States be, and he is hereby authorized to require of the Executives of the several states and territories, to take effectual measures to organize, arm, and equip, according to law, and hold in readiness to march at a moment's warning, their respective proportions of one hundred thousand militia, officers included, to be apportioned by the President of the United States, from the latest militia returns in the department of war; and, in cases where such returns have not been made, by such other data as he shall judge equitable

SECTION II. And be it further enacted, That the detachment of militia aforesaid shall be officered out of the present militia officers, or others, at the option and discretion of the constitutional authority in the respective states and territories; the President of the United States apportioning the general officers among the respective states and territories, as he may deem proper, and the commissioned officers of the militia, when called into actual service, shall be entitled to the same pay, rations and emoluments as the officers of the army of the United States.

SECTION III. And be it further enacted, That the said detachment shall not be compelled to serve a longer time than six months after they arrive at the place of rendezvous; and during the time of their service the non-commissioned officers, musicians and privates shall be entitled to the same pay and rations as is provided by law for the militia of the United States when called into actual service.

SECTION IV. And be it further enacted, That the President of the United States be and he hereby is authorized to call into actual service any part, or the whole of said detachment, in all the exigencies provided by the constitution, and the officers, non-commissioned officers, musicians and privates of the said detachment shall be subject to the penalties of the act, entitled "An Act for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections and repel invasions, and to repeal the act now in force for those purposes, passed the twenty-eighth day of February, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-five," and if a part only of said detachment shall be called into actual service, they shall be taken from such part thereof as the President of the United States shall deem proper.

SECTION V. And be it further enacted, That in lieu of whipping, as provided by several of the rules and articles of war, as now used and practiced, stoppage of pay, confinement and deprivation of part of the rations shall be substituted in such manner as hereinafter provided.

SECTION VI. And be it further enacted, That any non-commissioned officer or private belonging to the aforesaid detachment of militia, who shall, while in actual service, be convicted before any court-martial of any offense, which before the passing of this act might or could have subjected such person to be whipped, shall, for the first offense, be put under such stoppages of pay as such court-martial shall adjudge, not exceeding the one half of one month's pay for any one offense; but such offender may, moreover, at the discretion of such court-martial, be confined under guard, on allowance of half rations, any length of time, not exceeding ten days for any one offense, or may, at the discretion of such court-martial, be publicly drummed out of the army.

SECTION VII. And be it further enacted, That the sum of one million of dollars be, and the same is hereby appropriated to be paid out of any moneys in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, towards defraying any expenses incurred by virtue of the provisions of this act.

SECTION VIII. And be it further enacted, That this act shall continue and be in force for the term of two years from the passing thereof, and no longer.

H. CLAY,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.
WM. H. CRAWFORD,
President of the Senate pro tempore.

Approved April 10, 1812.

JAMES MADISON.

On the 25th of April, 1812, Governor Joseph Bloomfield issued an order to mobilize five thousand of the militia of the State for immediate service.

The following is the text of this order:

GENERAL ORDERS.

The President of the United States having required the Executive of this State to take effectual measures to organize, arm and equip according to law, and hold in readiness to march at a moment's warning, five thousand men, officers included (that being the quota of this State of one hundred thousand militia of the United States required to be detached by an act of Congress, passed on the 10th instant, entitled "An act to authorize a detachment from the militia of the United States"), and to have the same detached, and duly organized in companies, battalions, regiments, brigades and divisions, within the shortest period that circumstances will permit:

The Commander-in-Chief of New Jersey orders, that the Commandants of the several brigades detach the officers and men conformably to the foregoing requisition, from the corps under their respective commands, according to the following detail:

HEADQUARTERS, TRENTON, }
April 25th, 1812. }

The Commandants of brigades, regiments, battalions, squadrons and companies are called upon to use every exertion in their power to detach the officers and men from their respective commands on or before the next battalion days of exercise; and the several Brigade-Inspectors (or, in case of their absence, the officers appointed by the Commandants of brigades to do the duty of Brigade Inspectors) shall muster the officers and men placed in requisition on or before the next days of review and inspection of the several regiments, squadrons and independent battalions; and the several Commandants of brigades will direct correct inspection returns to be made of the names, grades and corps of the officers and men which may be detailed from their several brigades, and cause copies thereof to be transmitted to the Adjutant-General within ten days after the reviews of the regiments, squadrons and independent battalions, that the same may be returned without delay to the Secretary at War.

The officers and men must be armed and furnished with blankets and knapsacks, and ready to march whenever called upon.

Major-General Benjamin Ludlow will take the command of this detachment.

By prompt obedience to this requisition, and by conduct and bravery in the field, should there be occasion to take it, the militia of New Jersey will sustain the character they acquired during the Revolutionary War, while they assert the rights of our insulted country, maintain the independence of the nation, and support the Government of their choice.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

JAMES J. WILSON,
Adjutant-General.

On the 4th of May, General James J. Wilson, Adjutant-General of the State, supplemented this order by a letter to the several general officers of the State giving the details for this contingent called into service. On the 27th of March, Governor Joseph Bloomfield had been appointed a Brigadier-General in the United States Army, and on the 8th of June he issued his orders assuming command of the third military district, with headquarters at New York City. War with England was officially declared on the 18th of June, and during that month the detail was made for the five thousand troops required from New Jersey as its quota of the one hundred thousand militia called into the service of the United States by the act of Congress dated April 10th, 1812.

General Bloomfield announced the declaration of war at 9:30 o'clock on the morning of June 20th, from his headquarters at the Battery in New York. This was the first military announcement to troops of the declaration of war. He also ordered a detachment of the militia to be posted at Paulus Hoeck, now Jersey City, for military instruction and discipline. This force consisted of eleven companies of about three hundred men under Major Isaac Andrus, and they arrived at Fort Richmond, Staten Island, on the 20th of August. Six thousand dollars had been appropriated by the Legislature of New Jersey to equip these men. In the meantime, General Bloomfield had been relieved, August 11th, by Brigadier-General John Armstrong, of the United States Army, and General Bloomfield, still Governor of New Jersey, proceeded under orders to Plattsburg, on Lake Champlain, with a force of about eight thousand men collected for the invasion of Canada.

On the 2d of September, in response to a requisition from General Armstrong, the Honorable Charles Clark, Vice President of the Council, who, in the absence of the Governor, exercised the supreme executive power in the State, issued the following order:

HEADQUARTERS, TRENTON,
September 2d, 1812. }

GENERAL ORDERS.

Brigadier-General Armstrong, of the United States Army, commanding New York and its dependencies, having by an order of the 28th ultimo required of the Executive of the State of New Jersey a second detachment, "consisting of five hundred non-commissioned officers, musicians and privates, with a competent number of officers" to rendezvous at the encampment near Powles Hook, to relieve the detachment now on duty—the Commander-in-Chief therefore orders: That Major-General Ludlow detach "five hundred non-commissioned officers, musicians and privates, with a competent number of officers," from the five thousand men (officers included) detached from the militia of this State by General Orders of the 10th of April last; and the commanding officer of this second detachment will receive orders from Major-General Ludlow to repair on the 18th instant with said detachment to the encampment near Powles Hook, and on his arrival to report himself to Brigadier-General Armstrong.

By order of the Hon. Charles Clark, Vice President of Council of the State of New Jersey, exercising in the absence of the Governor the supreme executive power in said State.

Major-General BENJAMIN LUDLOW,
Commanding Detachment from New Jersey Militia.

JAMES J. WILSON,
Adjutant-General.

By this order a second detachment of five hundred men were directed to rendezvous at the encampment at Paulus Hoeck for ninety days' service, relieving the five hundred men ordered there on the June previous. The detachment of Major Andrus, at Fort Richmond, was relieved by six companies from Lieutenant-Colonel Joseph Jackson's regiment of militia.

On the 16th of November, Governor Aaron Ogden, who, on the 28th of October, had been elected Governor of the State in place of Joseph Bloomfield, issued orders for the entire militia of the State to hold itself in readiness for service at only twenty-four hours' notice. The language of this order is here given:

GENERAL ORDERS.

HEADQUARTERS, ELIZABETHTOWN,
November 16th, 1812. }

The Commander-in-Chief of the Militia of New Jersey, in consequence of a particular communication made to him by the General commanding at New York and its dependencies, thinks it prudent to direct that all the uniform companies, whether of cavalry, artillery, light infantry or riflemen, within the State, do hold themselves in readiness, upon a previous notice of twenty-four hours, to take the field duly equipped, each man having one good blanket and four days' provision ready cooked. The Captains commanding companies of artillery will make contracts, on behalf of the United States, for a suitable number of horses and drivers (by the day) to transport their respective field-pieces and their apparatus, to be paid only from the time of the order to march until their return; and, also, will take immediate measures, such as are allowed by law, to put into good order everything necessary for such transportation.

Each Captain of a uniform company will make an immediate return of the present state of his company, both as to the men and their munitions, adding such general remarks, in regard to their present ability to take the field, as he may think proper, and transmit the same to the Commander-in-Chief without delay.

As these volunteer corps, in all sudden emergencies, form the first and best defense of the State, it is hoped that such as may be able will display their zeal in joining themselves to some one or other of these uniform companies, as circumstances or inclination may lead, thus proving themselves a race of Jerseymen not unworthy of their fathers.

AARON OGDEN,
Commander-in-Chief of the Militia of New Jersey.

The uniformed militia of New Jersey then consisted of twenty-five hundred men, and this force was made subject to the call of General Armstrong, who was in command of fortifications of New York City and harbor.

During the year of 1812 the detached militia of New Jersey was called out for the defense of the seaboard, and was stationed at three points, Sandy Hook, Staten Island and Paulus Hoeck. The troops at Paulus Hoeck, however, were in a camp of instruction. They received their pay from the State of New Jersey, and were not considered as being in the service of the general government. The official return of the detached militia for 1812 shows the following force, all infantry, in service:

From August 17th—September 25th, twenty-three officers, fifty-two non-commissioned officers, two hundred and ninety men.

From September 17th—November 30th, twenty-five officers, fifty non-commissioned officers, three hundred and sixty-eight men.

On the 21st day of January, 1813, Adjutant-General John Beatty reported to His Excellency Governor Ogden, Commander-in-Chief, that, in compliance with his order of the 16th of November last, he had received a return showing that sixteen troops of cavalry, eleven companies of artillery, thirty companies of light infantry and seven companies of riflemen, with a total force of two thousand three hundred and seventy enlisted men, were ready for service, and that there was a "general readiness and zeal expressed by these uniform corps to comply with the instruction of the Commander-in-Chief to take the field in defense of the State," although their arms and munitions are deficient for actual service.

On the 20th of February, 1813, a law was passed by the Legislature of New Jersey appropriating five thousand dollars to enable Governor Ogden to take proper measures for the defense of the coast.

On the 24th of March the Governor issued a general order from his headquarters at Elizabethtown, enjoining upon "every enrolled militiaman to provide himself with a good musket or firelock, a sufficient bayonet and belt, two spare flints and a knapsack, a pouch to contain not less than twenty-four cartridges suited to the bore of his musket, each cartridge to contain a sufficient quantity of powder and ball; or if a rifleman, with a good rifle, knapsack, shot-pouch and powder-horn, twenty balls suited to the bore of his rifle, and one-quarter of a pound of powder; or if a dragoon, with a serviceable horse, at least fourteen hands and a half high, a good saddle, mall pillion and valise, holsters, a breastplate and crupper, a pair of boots and spurs, a pair of pistols, a sabre and cartouch box to contain cartridges for pistols."

On the 11th of May six companies of Colonel James Abraham's regiment of two hundred men were sent to the Navesink Heights for thirty days' service, or until relieved; they remained there until the 15th of September, when they were discharged, with the thanks of the Governor. This order is in the following very complimentary language:

ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
TRENTON, September 15th, 1813.

NEW JERSEY MILITIA—

* * * * *

"The Commander-in-Chief avails himself of the present occasion to express his satisfaction at the degree of patience, perseverance and general orderly conduct which has been manifested by those who have thus served out this term of duty. In a situation so novel, under the performance of unaccustomed services, and with so many other excitements to discontent from misrepresentations, in regard to the length of time they were liable to be retained, and the authority under which they were to be discharged, it is matter of much commendation that so many have had the patriotism, the virtue and the firmness to continue until this time."

"These will now return home, with honor, with their pay, and with their regular discharges, which, it is most sincerely hoped, will exempt them from future drafts during the present war; a condition far preferable to that of those who, so ill advisedly, have deserted the present service."

"The officers and men will be pleased to accept of this assurance of the Commander-in-Chief, of his friendly regards, his thanks for the services they have performed, and his best wishes that happiness and prosperity may always attend them."

JOHN BEATTY,
Adjutant-General.

Many of the men who were in service during the year 1813 were not mustered into the United States service, but, being ordered out by the Governor, were independent militia detachments not subject to the orders of the Commander of the Third Military District, although he was consulted by the Governor of the State as to their proper distribution along the seacoast. The following is the official report of the detached militia in service during the year 1813:

On the 14th of July, 1814, William Pennington, who was elected Governor of New Jersey October 28th, 1813, issued his order for five thousand men to hold themselves in readiness for immediate service. This is the text of the order:

HEADQUARTERS, TRENTON (NEW JERSEY),
14th July, 1814.

(GENERAL ORDER.)

The Executive of the United States having required the Executive of New Jersey to organize and hold in readiness for immediate service, a corps of militia consisting of five hundred artillery and four thousand five hundred infantry, and the laws of the State having authorized in such case the Commander-in-Chief to receive as volunteers any uniform companies of militia as part of such corps, making provision that due credit be given for the same, and the Secretary of War, in his communication to the Commander-in-Chief, having expressed a desire that uniform companies be preferred. The Commander-in-Chief proposes to the uniform companies of the militia of New Jersey to volunteer their services in the formation of this important corps. Such uniform companies of the militia as are disposed to volunteer their services will, therefore, make known the same as soon as possible (in twenty days at furthest) to the Adjutant-General, at Trenton, after which time they will be formed into regiments and battalions, the remainder of the corps completed, and the General, Field and Staff Officers designated. Those companies that have already patriotically offered their service when wanted, will now have an opportunity of doing it at a time when they can be accepted. The Captains of such companies as accept this invitation will transmit with the offer of service, a roll of their respective companies.

The Commander-in-Chief thinks it his duty to remind the militia of New Jersey that the crisis calls for a manifestation of public virtue. The events of the war in Europe have left America to again contend singly with the British Empire. The eyes of the world are upon us. Let us convince the enemy that the moment he lands on our shores he will be met by freemen in arms able and willing to defend their country. The citizens of New Jersey were among the first in our glorious struggle for national independence, and in the formation of our national government; they will not be last in arms to maintain what they have so heroically contributed to achieve and wisely to establish.

Attested:

WILLIAM S. PENNINGTON.

JAMES J. WILSON, Adjutant-General.

On the 11th of August, in response to a requisition from Major-General Morgan Lewis, who had been ordered in command of the Third Military District in New York City, relieving General Armistrong, then Secretary of War, Governor Pennington ordered two hundred men to encamp on the Heights of the Navesink. This detachment consisted of Captain James J. Wilson's Company, of Trenton; Captain Stephen C. Day's Company, of Orange; Captain John J. Plume's Artillery, of Newark; Captain Moses F. Davis' Rifle Company, of Bloomfield; Captain William Ten Eyck's Rifle Company, of Freehold; Lieutenant James Ten Eyck's Company, of Middletown Point. The next day the Governor issued the following order, calling into service companies of the militia which had volunteered in response to his orders of July 14th. This is the language of the order:

GENERAL ORDERS.

HEADQUARTERS, TRENTON, N. J.,
August 12th, 1814. }

The Commander-in-Chief announces his acceptance of the offers of service made by the following volunteer corps agreeably to his invitation of the 14th of July last, in the order in which they were received, viz.:

While accepting the patriotic offers of these volunteer companies, the Commander-in-Chief deems it his duty, in order that they may, should they be called into service, act their respective parts in a manner honorable to themselves and useful to their country, to enjoin it upon them one and all to equip themselves for the field as speedily as possible; to perfect themselves in discipline by frequent meetings and strict attention to the instructions of their officers, and to hold themselves in readiness to march at a moment's warning whenever the exigencies of their country may require.

In order to complete the quota of five thousand men, officers included, required from this State, the Commandants of the several brigades of infantry, and of the Cape May Regiment, will immediately caused to be detached from their respective commands the officers and privates called for in the following:

The Commanders of brigades, battalions and companies are expected to use all diligence to have the officers and men called for by the foregoing detail detached as promptly as possible (in conformity to the 4th section to the last supplement of the militia act). The several Brigade-Majors are required with all practicable expedition to muster the men within their respective bounds (as well the volunteers as others), and cause correct inspection returns to be made of the names, grades and corps of the officers and men thus detached to the Adjutant-General's office in Trenton, from whence they will be transmitted to the Commanders of the respective brigades now organizing. Captain Jacob Butcher's and Captain Borden's companies in the Monmouth brigade, and Captain Scull's volunteers, and Captain Robert Smith's Artillery company in the Gloucester brigade, will be exempt from this detail—those companies having volunteered to perform certain services under the act of the 12th of February last, and have not been included in the aggregate of their respective brigades.

The officers and privates thus detailed, together with the volunteer companies in the several counties, will be organized into regiments, as follows :

Those of Bergen and Essex, into one regiment.
 Those of Morris and Sussex, into one regiment.
 Those of Somerset, Middlesex and Monmouth, into one regiment.
 These three regiments to compose one brigade, to be commanded by Brigadier-General Colfax.

Those of Hunterdon and Burlington to form one regiment.
 Those of Gloucester, Salem, Cumberland and Cape May to form another regiment.
 These two regiments to form a brigade, to be commanded by Brigadier-General Elmer.
 The whole to be under the command of Major-General Shinn.

Brigadier-Generals Elmer and Colfax will attend to the formation of the regiments composing their respective brigades, disposing of the artillery and volunteers in the best manner to make the regiments serviceable.

Deputy Adjutant-General Israel Day and Deputy Quartermaster-Generals Reynolds and Brewster are detailed for this service.

By order of the Commander-in-Chief,

JAMES J. WILSON,
 Adjutant General.

On the 30th day of August, General Lewis addressed a letter to Governor Pennington requiring all of the militia of the State, about five thousand men, to assemble in the vicinity of New York. General Bloomfield, who had returned from Sacket's Harbor, New York, and had been ordered in command of the Fourth Military District, with headquarters at Philadelphia, claimed that General Elmer's brigade of about two thousand men should be furnished for the defense of the city of Philadelphia. The Governor referred this matter to the Secretary of War for his decision, and General Elmer and his brigade were ordered to report to the headquarters of the Fourth Military District.

On the 31st day of August, the Governor issued the following order for the march of certain volunteer companies to Paulus Hoeck :

GENERAL ORDERS.

HEADQUARTERS, TRENTON,
 August 31st, 1814. }

In consequence of a requisition made by Major-General Lewis, Commanding General of the Third Military District, the Commander-in-Chief orders the following volunteer companies to march immediately, under the orders of their respective Commanders, to Powles Hook, opposite the city of New York, viz. : Captain Daniel Kilburn's artillery, Captain Harrison's rifle, Captain Lindeley's rifle, Captain Mitchell's rangers, Captain Crane's rifle and Captain Ball's light infantry companies of Essex county, Captain Halliday's rangers, Captain Carter's rifle and Captain Brittin's fusileers, companies of Morris county, Captain Fair's light infantry company of Bergen county, Captain Garrison's infantry, Captain Brues's light infantry and Captain M'Kissack's rifle companies of Somerset county, Captain Fell's light infantry and Captain Donlevy's rangers of Sussex county. (Captain Neilson's, Captain Van Dyke's, Captain Scott's and Captain MacKay's companies, of the city of New Brunswick, will hold themselves in readiness to march to the same place as soon as they shall receive orders for that purpose from Brigadier-General Colfax.)

Brigadier-General Colfax will immediately repair to Poules Hook and take the command of the whole, and give the necessary orders for drawing out the remainder of the brigade assigned him by the orders of the 12th instant, as soon as the detailed militia under said order shall be inspected in their respective counties, who are ordered into immediate service, as soon as inspected, they will be formed into regiments at Poules Hook, agreeable to the orders of the 12th instant.

Deputy Adjutant-General Day and Deputy Quartermaster-General Brewster are ordered into service, and will for the present put themselves under the order of General Colfax. All the camp equipage at Newark at present, in the charge of Colonel T. T. Kinney, will be removed to Poules Hook. The arms at Newark will be disposed of by Colonel T. T. Kinney, according to such instructions as he shall receive from the Commander-in-Chief.

WILLIAM S. PENNINGTON.

Upon its arrival at Paulus Hoeck the force was put under the direct command of Colonel John Frelinghuysen, of Somerset county. It consisted of about twenty-three companies of twelve hundred men, and is known as the Third Regiment.

On the 27th of October, 1814, General Lewis transferred the command of the Third Military District to Daniel E. Tompkins, Governor of New York. The Governor of New Jersey was constrained by popular feeling to address Honorable William Eustis, Secretary of War, on this singular action of the general government, which he did the 29th day of October, stating that the Military District comprehended the principal part of New Jersey, with between two and three thousand militia of the State now in actual service. He thought it a novel thing, at least, that the Governor of a State should have the command of the militia of a neighboring State within the actual territory of that State. He did not desire to throw the least obstruction in the way of the operations of the government in any measure of defense, but he conceived it to be his duty to inquire as to the facts in the case and the views of the War Department on the subject. On the 22d of November the Secretary of War replied that Governor Tompkins had a right, by virtue of his being Commander of the Military District, to command such militia as had been called into the services of the United States within the limits of that district.

General Colfax's Brigade remained in service until the month of December, when they were paid for their service by the corporation of New York City.

The following letter was sent by Colonel John Frelinghuysen to Governor Tompkins at the close of this military service :

CAMP, JERSEY CITY, }
December 9th, 1814. }

"About leaving the post which has been assigned me by my country, I cannot avoid, in behalf of the regiment under my command, testifying to your Excellency the great satisfaction that has been expressed by all at the conduct of the State of New York, through the individual exertions of her Commander-in-Chief in her behalf, and through me, as their Commander, to return to your Excellency, for them and myself, our grateful acknowledgments for the favors conferred in visiting and comforting us, and in paying us our due; and I do not hesitate to declare, in behalf of all, that under every calamitous and dangerous situation in which your city may be placed, we shall feel a readiness to be among the number who shall act in her defense and the defense of our common country.

" I am, Sir, yours with esteem,

" JNO. FRELINGHUYSEN,

" Late under your command."

The official report of the Adjutant-General of the State in 1814 shows that the entire militia consisted of thirty-six thousand officers and men.

During the year 1814 the militia at the Highlands, near Sandy Hook, consisting of both infantry and artillery, numbered about fifteen hundred men.

Captain Robert Smith's Company of Artillery.

Third Regiment, Gloucester Brigade.

This company was organized February 12, 1809, and was attached to the Second Battalion, Third Regiment, Gloucester Brigade, New Jersey Militia, and having volunteered "for the protection of the maritime frontier" in accordance with section 8 of the Militia law of February 12, 1814, was ordered into service during the War of 1812-15 by Governor Pennington. In the call for troops made by the Governor August 12, 1814, this company was exempted from the detail "having volunteered to perform certain services." The company was enrolled for duty at Smithville, Gloucester (now Atlantic) county, and was stationed at Leeds Point and Somers Point and at other places on the sea-coast between Little Egg Harbor and Great Egg Harbor rivers. The enemy attempted to land at Somers Point on one occasion and the company was called out to repel them. They appear to have had but one continuous tour of duty, which was from May 1 to June 29, 1814, and for which they were paid by the State, by act of the Legislature, February 8, 1816; but during all the rest of the year they were always "prepared for actual service on any sudden emergency" and were called out several times by alarms along the coast for the immediate defence of the State. They were finally discharged at the close of the war at Smithville, February 19, 1815.

Captain Jacob Butcher's Company of Infantry.

First Regiment, Monmouth Brigade.

This company was organized April 2, 1814, and the officers commissioned May 6, 1814, and called the Volunteer Company, First Battalion, First Regiment, Monmouth Brigade, New Jersey Militia. The company volunteered "for the defence of the maritime frontier" in accordance with section 8 of the Militia law of February 12, 1814, and was ordered into service during the War of 1812-15 by Governor Pennington. In the call for troops made by the Governor August 12, 1814, this company was exempted from the detail, "having volunteered to perform certain services." This command was organized at "Butcher's Works" (now Burrsville) in Monmouth (now Ocean) county, at the head of Metedeconk river. These "Works," which furnished most of the men, consisted simply of an iron forge and furnace and were owned by Benajah Butcher, father of Captain Butcher, and Barzillia Burr, which accounts for the former and present name of the hamlet. The company had one six-pound field piece and in all about one hundred stand of arms. They were ordered to guard the coast between Long Branch, Deal and Barnegat inlet. It appears they were engaged in one fight, called the battle at "Brant Hill," in which a British man-of-war, understood to be the "Effervire," carrying thirty-two guns, attempted to land at the mouth of the Squan river. This ship shelled the shore from 9 A. M. until 3 P. M., and during the engagement, whenever small boats from the ship tried to land, evidently to burn some vessels in the river and for plunder, they were received with such volleys of musketry that, at the close of the day, they were obliged to withdraw, wholly defeated in their designs. During their term of service they were called out several times by alarms along the coast for the immediate defence of the State. The company was finally discharged at the close of the war at "Butcher's Works" February 1, 1815. The original roll of the organization was destroyed by fire and the following persons are all who can be certified as having done duty therewith during the war:

Captain Francis Borden's Company of Infantry.

Third Regiment, Monmouth Brigade.

This company, belonging to the Third Regiment, Monmouth Brigade, New Jersey Militia, volunteered "for the protection of the maritime frontier," in accordance with section 8 of the Militia law of February 12, 1814, and was ordered into service during the War of 1812-15 by Governor Pennington. In the call for troops made by the Governor August 12, 1814, the company was exempted from the detail, "having volunteered to perform certain services." The company was enrolled for duty in the spring of 1814 at Shrewsbury, Monmouth county, and was stationed at Eatontown, Long Branch and the Highlands. The company was relieved from this tour of duty at the close of the war, services no longer being required. But little is known of the organization, not a member thereof being alive in the year 1875. The names of the officers and most of the men have been ascertained, but the date of discharge cannot be verified.

Shrewsbury, Monmouth County.

Teamsters.

While these men were not mustered into the service of the State as militia nor into the service of the United States, they were employed and performed this service either under the direction of the Quartermaster General's Department or of Government contractors. Their services were afterward recognized by the General Government under the provisions of an act of Congress, approved March 3, 1855, entitled "An act in addition to certain acts granting bounty land to certain officers and soldiers who have been employed in the military service of the United States, Sec. 1. * * * Provided further, that the benefits of this section shall be held to extend to wagon masters and teamsters who may have been employed under directions of competent authority in time of war in the transportation of military stores and supplies." The majority of these men served from the date of their contract to the close of the war, February 17, 1815.

Officers and Enlisted Men in the United States Army from New Jersey. War With Great Britain, 1812-1815.

War between the United States and Great Britain was declared by an act of Congress approved June 18, 1812, and by a proclamation of the President the following day.

When the war was declared the strength of the regular army was but two regiments of dragoons and seven regiments of infantry.

Under the provisions of the acts of Congress approved January 11, and June 26, 1812, and other subsequent acts, the regular army establishment was increased to a war footing by the organization of a large number of new regiments. When war was declared there were many officers in commission and serving in the regular army who were appointed from New Jersey and who continued in the service. With the increase of the number of regiments many others were appointed from this State, and were commissioned as officers of these new regiments.

At the close of the war, and as provided by an act of Congress approved March 3, 1815, the strength of the army was reduced from a war to a peace footing by the disbandment of regiments or by their consolidation with those regiments designated to be retained in the regular establishment. Under orders thus directing the reduction and reorganization of the army, many of the officers appointed from New Jersey were continued in commission and service and were assigned to the retained regiments; while those whose services were no longer required were honorably discharged.

Under the provisions of the several acts of Congress directing the increase of the regular army establishment to a war footing, recruiting was ordered in the several States. In various sections of New Jersey recruiting stations were opened for the enlistment of men for this service. A large number enlisted in and from the State to its credit and were assigned to the several regiments either organized or being organized. The terms of enlistment were one year, eighteen months, for the war, and for five years.

The declaration of peace was ratified by Congress February 17, 1815, and by the President's proclamation dated February 18, 1815, declaring peace re-established. Under an act of Congress approved March 3, 1815, those who were enlisted for the war were honorably discharged. Those who were enlisted for five years were permitted to be discharged or transferred to regiments which were to be retained in the service, to serve the unexpired term of their enlistment.

The records of the officers and enlisted men who served to the credit of New Jersey in the regular establishment during the war period are herein given as complete as can be obtained.

Officers and Enlisted Men in the United States Navy and Marine Corps from New Jersey. War With Great Britain, 1812-1815.

The War with Great Britain was not only a combat between the land forces, but was bitterly contested by the naval forces as well, and some of the most sanguinary battles of this war period were fought on the high seas.

At the commencement of this war, the naval branch of the United States Government had but little strength in either ships or men, but there were in commission and enlistment officers and men who had had a naval training and personal experience during previous naval contests with France, in 1798-1801, and Tripoli, Africa, 1801-1805.

The active service performed by the naval forces during this war period was not confined to the shores of this country, but covered the North Atlantic, South Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, where, in many hard-fought engagements, the discipline and ability of both officers and enlisted men proved their superiority, and made an impression everywhere as to the daring and seamanship of the forces composing the navy of the New Republic, which had for a long time been subjected to disrespect and looked upon with derision by older nations, who were now forced to an acknowledgment of their mistaken judgment.

Among the brave and able officers and enlisted men who so gallantly and meritoriously served in our nation's navy, many were from New Jersey. That they were both faithful and efficient, is shown by the following records of their service, gathered and compiled from the fragmentary records on file at the Navy Department, Headquarters of the United States Marine Corps, and other Departments at Washington, D. C.

IN THE

UNITED STATES NAVY AND MARINE CORPS FROM NEW JERSEY,

IN COMMISSION AND ENLISTMENT DURING THE

War With Algiers, Africa, March 3 to August 9, 1815.

Officers and Enlisted Men in the United States Navy and Marine Corps from New Jersey.

IN COMMISSION AND ENLISTMENT DURING THE War With Algiers, Africa, 1815.

This decisive war, conducted entirely by the naval and marine forces of the United States, was indirectly brought about by Great Britain's policy to encourage the Barbary States in piracy, with the view of obtaining a monopoly of the Mediterranean commerce to the exclusion of all the weaker maritime nations, through the payment of annual tribute and the exhibition of grand naval maneuvers; and her attitude in inducing the rulers of Barbary to believe that, by reason of the declaration of war made by the United States against the Kingdom of Great Britain on June 18, 1812, she would annihilate the navy and the commerce of the United States and prevent her from building ships-of-war larger than a frigate. Stimulated by this assurance, and smarting under the punishment the American Navy had given them during the War with Tripoli, 1801-5, these barbarous pirates assumed a hostile disposition.

No sooner had the Dey of Algiers learned of the declaration of war against Great Britain, than he hastened to take offence at the quality and quantity of a shipment of military stores made by the United States in pursuance of the stipulation in the treaty concluded with that regency September 5, 1795; and, more than that, as the reckoning of the tribute was by Mohammedan years, and not by the Christian calendar, he claimed that we were deficient to the amount of twenty-seven thousand dollars in the year 1812. The Dey declined to accept the present and ordered the American consul, Tobias Lear, at Algiers, to forthwith leave his dominions on the 25th of July, 1812, after being summarily required to pay, under protest, the arrearages of the treaty stipulation claimed, by threats of imprisonment; and he then commenced a predatory war upon the then existing commerce of the United States in the Mediterranean, and subjected the captives to the well-known horrors of Algerine slavery.

Five days after the treaty with Great Britain had been proclaimed, or February 23, 1815, President James Madison recommended to the Congress that war be declared against Algiers, which recommendation was approved on the 3d of the following month by an act entitled "An act for the protection of the commerce of the United States against the Algerine cruisers."

This naval war, sometimes known as the War with the Barbary Powers, commenced with the ordering, by the Secretary of the United States Navy, of two squadrons to the Mediterranean, under the command of Captains William Bainbridge and Stephen Decatur, respectively, who, together with William Shaler, Consul General to the Barbary States, were authorized to wage war or negotiate peace. The squadron, in advance of that service, under Captain Decatur, lost not a moment after its arrival in the Mediterranean, June 15, 1815, in seeking the naval force of the enemy then cruising in that sea, and succeeded in capturing two of his ships, one of them the flagship of the Algerine admiral. Having prepared the way by this demonstration of American skill and prowess, he hastened to the port of Algiers, where peace was promptly concluded by a treaty of amity on board the United States Frigate "Guerriere," flagship of Captain Stephen Decatur, June 30, 1815, which treaty of peace was proclaimed by the President of the United States, James Madison, on the 26th of the following December. In the terms stipulated, the rights and honor of the United States were particularly consulted by a perpetual relinquishment on the part of the Dey of all pretensions to tribute from them.

Both Tunis and Tripoli had shown a hostile disposition, and both, in conformity with their treaties with Great Britain, but contrary to those made with us, had, during the war, allowed British ships to take possession of American prizes anchored in their harbors.

The American squadron then appeared before Tunis on July 26, and, with his usual promptness, Captain Decatur, commanding, allowed the Bey of that regency twelve hours in which to pay forty-six thousand dollars for allowing the seizure of the "Abellino's" prizes by the British cruiser "Lyra." When the Bey saw the captured British ships that now formed part of the American squadron, he instantly complied with the demand.

From this port Captain Decatur proceeded to the harbor of Tripoli, where he dropped anchor on August 5, and demanded of the Bashaw the immediate payment of thirty thousand dollars for the two prizes of the "Abellino" seized by the British cruiser "Paulina," a salute of thirty-one guns from his castle to the flag at the American consulate, and that the negotiations be held on board his flagship, the "Guerriere." The demeanor of the Bashaw was promptly changed after he heard of the treatment that Algiers and Tunis had received, when he complied with every requirement.

On October 6, 1815, the squadron of Captain Decatur assembled at Gibraltar, where they found the second squadron, which, united, composed the Mediterranean fleet, under the command of Captain William Bainbridge. Thus terminated a condition which led to the final expulsion of this piratical system from the Mediterranean sea, in which the officers and enlisted men from New Jersey, in the naval and marine corps, took an active part.
